

Here's a list of the many words we usually say to friends in French:

-Salut ! (Sah l u) it's a familiar term to greet a friend (short from salutations)

-Comment ça va ? (Coh men [as in entrepreneur] sa va) note that you can drop the "Comment" and just say "Ca va ?". You can also combine it with Salut to make "Salut, ca va ?"

There are a lot of answers possible for this one:

-Bien (bee hein [as in Hei-senberg]) = good

-Pas bien (pa) = not good

-Tranquille (tran [as in transformers] qi le) = comes close to « Just chilling », you're not too active or doing anything, or if you're, it's a comfy one. Also note that you can just say this word to answer and not make a whole sentence.

-Bof (almost like barf but with an o and without the r) = so-so

And then you can ask them by saying:

-Et toi ? (Hay toa) = and what about you ?

Here's some other words that we often say:

-Désolé (day zo lay) = I am so sorry (you often say "Je suis désolé" I am so sorry)

-Pardon (Par [as in on par] don [on as in only]) = Excuse me, you can use it to ask someone to move out of the way by just saying it, or if you made a mistake you can say ("pardon j'ai pas fait exprès" Excuse me I didn't mean to) and exprès is pronounced (ex-pray)

And that's about it, at least what comes to my mind at the moment, as always you are always free to dm me for any reason, either be it for translation or just to talk.

Lukas.
